Toilet Contour Rug, Bath Mat

About this Pattern

This bath mat is made by holding two strands of worsted weight cotton yarn together and knitting them as one. You'll work in a seed stitch pattern, which creates a nice, absorbent texture. The contour rug is shorter on the front and wider on the sides than traditional toilet rugs; this helps catch rouge accidents from potty training boys. Instructions are also included in this pattern set for a matching rectangular bath mat.

Gauge

13 stitches and 19 rows in stockinette (with two strands held together) = 4 inches

Abbreviations

k = Knit.

p = Purl.

 = Repeat the pattern between the asterisks.
